Chapter 1 by Parkour_Ninja

Why does school have to end? Why do I have to move? I freakin' love it here with all of my friends and the universe is just ripping them from my grip. When I move there will be no-one where I go, no family, no friends. I hate having to restart, having to "make new friends", people say that having to make new friends a bunch gives you good people skills. Why not just make new friends, but keep the ones you have. The friends I have here are amazing, sure they pick on me a bit, but all good friends do. I've met people who have turned out just fine and they moved a lot more than me, and I don't doubt that I'll turn out fine if not great. But right now I just want school to last a little longer. There are only 18 more school days left and they seem to go faster and faster each week. So if any of my friends are reading this I love you and hope to see great things from each of you!
